Bishop Museum Catalogue.

"A Preliminary Catalogue of the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Museum of Polynesian Ethnology and Natural History," has been issued by Prof. Wm. T. Brigham, A. M., Curator. The catalogue is divided into two parts: "I. Kahili, Feather ornaments, Mats and Kapas;" "II. Household Implements, Tools, Amusements, War, Worship, Ornaments, Medicine, Fisheries and Canoes, Relics of Chiefs." In a brief introduction the Curator says: "Although so recently established, this Museum may already claim the first rank in certain departments, as kahili, calabashes, kapas, mats, and Polynesian stone implements. It is hoped that eventually (when sufficient room can be provided) not only the Ethnology of Polynesia will be fully represented, but the Natural History as well, by authentically named specimens, so that the means may be provided for a study of the natural productions of a large part of the Pacific Ocean and its Islands. At present the energies of the Museum are concentrated in securing a complete series of Hawaiian Natural History, Products, and Antiquities."

The catalogue's notes on the exhibits are often of much interest, in the light they throw on the life of the ancient Hawaiians. A visit to the Museum with this catalogue in hand will give vastly more pleasure and information than one paid before the appearance of such a necessary help. Although Prof. Brigham has always been cheerfully ready to answer questions, and to volunteer information when he found visitors "wanting to know, you know," it is impossible for one man to wait on a dozen or a score of people scattered all over the building.

The Museum has been described on different occasions in this paper, where also a clear picture of it has been given. Its contents consist of the Hawaiian collection of Mrs. Bishop, the founder, the collection bequeathed by Queen Emma, the collection of Mr. Joseph S. Emerson, stone implements collected by Mr. Geo. H. Dole, a collection made in New Guinea, one made by Mr. Eric Craig of Auckland, the collection formerly known as the Government Museum, and many articles given by friends. The Museum is at present open free to the public on Fridays from 9 a. m. until 12 m., and on Saturdays from 2 until 5 p. m.

Memorial Service.

This evening (Tuesday) being the eve of St. Andrew's Day, there will be full Choral Evensong in the Cathedral at 7 p. m. Magnificat, double chant; Nunc Dimittis, double chant; Hymns 215, 403 and 439; Processional Hymn, 391.

On Wednesday morning there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 6:30, and Matins at 9.

It will be the anniversary of the death of Liholiho (Kamehameha IV.), and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the cathedral by Kamehameha V.

For the Season.

The Pacific Hardware Co. are displaying Dinner, Breakfast, Chamber and Tea Sets in Doulton Ware and Copeland; examples suitable for presents in Haviland, Copeland, Royal Worcester, Royal Devon and Bisque; Bisque Figures; Rochester Lamps; a few Fancy Clocks, and many other articles.

Hingham Buckets, plain and painted, in nests. Every housekeeper should have a supply of these. Refrigerators and Ice Chests of the most improved patterns.

Pictures and Picture Frames. Picture Framing in all its branches a specialty. A visit to the art rooms is invited.

FAREWELL TO A CHURCH.

Central Union Congregation Take Leave of Old Fort Street Church.

Last Sunday was a memorable day for the members of Central Union Church. This body was formed by a union of the old Fort Street Church and the Bethel Union Church congregations, after the Bethel was destroyed in the great fire of 1886. The Central Union Church congregation, having erected a noble stone edifice at Beretania and Richards streets, bade farewell with appropriate exercises to the old wooden Fort Street Church on the day mentioned.

Rev. E. G. Beckwith, D.D., pastor, preached a farewell discourse at the morning service, from Psalm 26:8—"Lord, I have loved the habitation of thy house, and the place where thine honor dwelleth." After an introduction bearing on the reasons why they should love the old church, the preacher went into the history of the congregation and building. "The Second Foreign Church in Honolulu" was organized June 2, 1852, under the pastorate of Rev. T. E. Taylor. It held weekly prayer meetings in a little session room, and worshipped Sundays, first, in the old Kaumakapili grass church, and, next by permission of the Government, in the new courthouse on Queen street. On September 26, 1853, the Board of Trustees—O. H. Gulick, Wm. H. Johnson, Jacob Hardy, E. O. Hall and E. G. Beckwith (the present pastor)—bought the site of the church, now about to be abandoned, of S. N. Castle for $2100. Mr. Castle had bought the land of Chief Justice Wm. L. Lee. The name of the church was changed January 28, 1856, to "The Fort Street Church."

After the purchase of the site the one great purpose of the congregation was to erect a building. About the first of May, 1854, at a meeting of the church and congregation, presided over by Judge Lorrin Andrews, S. N. Castle, chairman, a committee on plans and estimates, reported. The report was accepted and a building committee consisting of A. S. Cooke, O. H. Gulick, A. B. Bates, G. P. Judd, Henry Dimond and Warren Goodale was instructed to take preliminary steps toward the erection of a brick edifice to cost $18,000. The plans were frustrated by the necessity of the pastor's leaving for the benefit of his health. In the spring of 1856 the matter was revived. The Board of Trustees, consisting of G. P. Judd, Warren Goodale, E. O. Hall, C. R. Bishop, R. A. S. Wood, J. H. Wood, D. A. Weston, A. B. Bates and Ichabod Bartlett, met at 10 o'clock every morning and spent one hour in canvassing the town for subscriptions to the building fund. July 22, 1856, it was decided to accept the tender of C. H. Levers for the building of a church according to plans prepared by R. M. Heuck and perfected by R. A. S. Wood, at the price of $1500, changed finally to $10,575. G. P. Judd, J. H. Wood and R. A. S. Wood were appointed a building committee and the work of construction began. A spire was not in the calculations, but the ladies, who had started the building fund with a subscription of $1500, and paid a deficit of $217.50 on the site, came together and resolved to raise $360 for a spire. The letter conveying their resolution was signed by Ann Maria Dimond. It was decided not to have the church dedicated till it was paid for. The church was dedicated December 28, 1856, with prayer by Rev. Mr. Turner of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Strong. In 1868 the choir loft was added under the superintendence of a committee consisting of G. P. Judd, W. W. Hall, W. C. Parke and A. F. Judd. The building was expanded on the two sides in 1873, by a building committee composed of P. C. Jones, W. F. Allen and W. W. Hall, at a cost of $502.61. The speaker concluded by recalling the memories of pastors and people identified with the old church.

EVENING SERVICE.

The church was crowded for the farewell exercises of the evening, numbers of late-comers being unable to get seats. After devotional exercises, in which the pastor was aided by Rev. Dr. Hyde, the exercises were given in charge of a committee, of which Chief Justice Judd was chairman.

Rev. F. W. Damon spoke feelingly of the associations of unity connected with the superannuated edifice, mentioning especially the happy union of the Bethel, of which he was a member and son of the pastor, with the Fort street congregation.

Miss Chamberlain gave an address full of reminiscences of the missionary fathers and mothers, and notable members of the church in its early days. She drew a vivid word picture of a Sabbath there spent in those times, bringing in a long list of the worthies of whom but few survive.

Mr. W. W. Hall gave a history of the choir, of which he was a member when a small boy. It had always been mainly filled by members of the church, most of them pupils of the Punahou schools. Probably not less than 400 or 500 persons had been in the choir at different times. Before the choir loft was built the choir occupied the gallery, and at the singing the congregation turned round and faced it. The present Chief Justice was leader of the choir in 1868 when the new organ was replaced by the pipe organ now in use. Other leaders were Miss Mary Montague Cooke, Rev. Mr. Bissell, Mr. Theo. Richards and Prof. Yandley. The organists had been Miss Nellie Judd, Mrs. A. F. Judd, Mr. Myron Jones, Mr. Wray Taylor and Miss Dale, the present organist as well as choir leader. Of the present members Hon. J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., and the speaker were the sole relics of the original choir.

Hon. A. F. Judd gave recollections of the contemporaneous conditions existing in the early years of the church. When it was built Kamehameha V. was reigning, there were two Houses of the Legislature, the annual exports were less than half a million, and Bishop Staley, who founded the Anglican Church, had not been thought of. Taro patches extended to the site of the building, and there was hardly a house east of Thomas Square. It was the first wooden church of any size in the islands, and the wood came from the Sound instead of from Boston. The church was lighted with sperm oil, causing sensations other than pleasant to nose and eyes. It received a bell, the same as now transferred to the new church, which was the loudest and clearest in the group, giving the natives a name for the church, which they still use, denoting a sense of awe. The first minister ordained in the church was the present pastor. Though only 36 years old the building survived others of its day, such as the old palace, post office, Sailor's Home, etc. This climate, with its insect pests, made wooden buildings short-lived.

The Chief Justice read a letter from Mr. H. W. Severance, United States Consul-General, who did not wish to make an address, and from Hon. C. R. Bishop, absent in San Francisco.

Mr. C. J. Lyons delivered an eloquent address on the religious associations of the old church. Hon. J. B. Atherton, treasurer, in a brief address on the financial management, adduced interesting facts from the earliest records found in a long-neglected box. Revenue used to be derived chiefly from the annual sale of slips, but after the union with the Bethel the system of pledges had been substituted. This had proved so successful that they should begin the new year in the handsome new church free of debt.

Rev. S. E. Bishop offered the closing prayer. While the offertory was being taken Miss Halstead and Mr. Reuvsy sang a beautiful duet. The musical services of the evening were inspiring, the choir being out in full strength. A farewell hymn composed by Mrs. Emma Dillingham to the tune of "Hambury" was sung, exercising before the benediction. Probably the last service to be held in the old church will be the weekly prayer meeting to-morrow evening.

Household Guards Review.

The Household Guards assembled at the Barracks yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and headed by the Royal Hawaiian band, marched through the town. The guards finally headed for the Makiki Recreation grounds, where they were reviewed by Her Majesty the Queen. Present on the ground to witness the review were: Governor A. S. Cleghorn, Major J. H. Wodehouse, British Minister Resident, T. R. Walker, British Vice-Consul, Major J. W. Robertson, Her Majesty's Chamberlain, Their Excellencies G. N. Wilcox, M. P. Robinson, P. C. Jones and Cecil Brown, Ministers; T. H. Davies and other prominent people. The guards were divided into two companies, A being in command of Lieutenant Kaala and B under Lieutenant Charles Warren. The different exercises of the companies were much admired, especially the field evolutions and the bayonet practice, which won great applause. Nearly an hour was spent on the plains where the review was given, and the guards started for home. Captain S. Nowlin was in command of the forces, assisted by First Lieutenant Jerome. The tactics of the guards were the subject of enthusiastic praise by all the spectators.

Pacific Wheelmen's Parade.

One of the prettiest spectacles ever seen on Honolulu's streets was the parade of the Pacific Wheelmen on the evening of Independence Day. About thirty bicycles illuminated with Chinese lanterns were in line. They were preceded by minstrels in a wagonette. The procession entered the Palace yard and, on drawing up in front of the main entrance, it was reviewed by the Queen. Ruby Dexter, captain, addressed a short speech of congratulation to Her Majesty, on the occasion of the day's celebration, to which she replied in a gracious manner. After giving three rousing cheers for the Queen, the Wheelmen left the grounds. The procession then wound through the principal streets, eliciting hearty acclamations from crowds all along the way. Her Majesty presented the corps with a cheque for $50 for the erection of a fence around their new track at Pearl City. The track is situated opposite Mr. John F. Colburn's place on ground as level as a billiard table.

Independence Day Exercises.

The usual patriotic gathering of Hawaiians, in honor of Independence Day, was held in Kawaiahaeo Church. Her Majesty attended, accompanied by Governor Cleghorn, Chamberlain Robertson and Prince Kalaniano'ole. Members of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps, Captain Wiltse and officers of the U. S. S. Boston were present. After prayer by Rev. H. H. Parker the oration of the day was delivered by Hon. E. K. Lilikala. A short address was also made by Hon. J. K. Iosepa.

Patriotic songs were held in various places. One at Keau's place at Kaka'ako, largely attended, extended into a spell of speech-making lasting till after 10 o'clock. Mr. J. Nahora Hips and others spoke, making special reference to next year's being the jubilee anniversary of independence. By unanimous vote the editor of the BULLETIN, who looked in while on his way home, was invited to make a few remarks.

NEW STEEL VESSEL.

Noble Addition to the Hawaiian Mercantile Marine.

The Hawaiian steel bark R. P. Rithet, in command of Captain P. H. M. Morrison, well-known in this city, arrived yesterday morning, Nov. 28, 32 days from Nantamo, B. C., having left that port on Oct. 25. She brings 1676 tons of coal from the Wellington mines consigned to the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co., and is berthed near the Pacific Mail dock. The bark experienced moderate and calm weather and light winds up to Thursday last, Nov. 24th, when she experienced very heavy westerly gales in 24 N., 148 W. This continued for three days, during which the vessel behaved splendidly. The wind was shifting during the storm, the first half being from N. W. and then suddenly to S. W. However, the bark came out without sustaining any damage. She will load sugar for San Francisco.

The R. P. Rithet was built in Glasgow by Cameron & McConnell, and was launched on Dec. 31, 1891, consequently she will be one year in the water the last day of this year. Sailed from Glasgow for Cardiff Feb. 23 and arrived on the 26th. Left for Chile with 1650 tons of patent fuel March 12, and arrived June 13. Left Pisagua, Chile, in ballast for Puget Sound and made port Aug. 17. From there she came here, leaving Oct. 25. The vessel is constructed of steel, hull and spars, and is of 1083 tons register. She is fitted with direct steam communication and carries a patent screw wheel. Everything on her is of the most improved style. The decks are of Quebec pine. She has side and stern ports for lumber loading. She carries 1676 tons coal at present on 17ft. 11in. keel, and is capable of carrying 2000 tons of sugar. The deck frame and steel house are constructed on a patent and guarantee great strength. The steel houses on deck include galley, engine house and a house near the main hatch for second-class passengers. The cabin is large, airy and nicely fitted out, with trimmings of black ebony, birdseye maple and mahogany. The trimmings on deck are of oak.

The R. P. Rithet is calculated to draw 18½ feet water when loaded. When without ballast she is able to stand free with everything set aloft. There is a portable steam fire-engine between decks with tubes along the whole length of the vessel, so that it is only necessary to use 30 feet of hose to reach every part of the ship. The Captain believes her to be a very fast sailer if she had the chance. Captain Morrison was formerly on the bark Andrew Welch and left her in San Francisco to bring the Rithet out. The R. P. Rithet was built for C. Brower & Co.

Hawaiian Hardware Co., L'd

Saturday, Nov. 26, 1892.

There is no place on the globe where people know better what good things are than in Honolulu. And they know where to come when they are ready to buy. The Fischer Range has demonstrated its superiority over all rivals just as the Bradley & Hubbard lamp has convinced the world that no other lamp shines as well.

Every year you are offered opportunities of getting lamps cheap or, more correctly speaking, cheap lamps. Attractiveness is the only thing in their favor, usefulness is not considered because they are gotten up to sell. The manufacturers who put such things on the market sometimes make a better article but they are found only in the establishment of reputable dealers.

When you are buying a lamp the main thing to be considered is the burner. The "Bradley & Hubbard" has stood the test all over the world and is without an equal. Inferior lamps do not have the B. & H. burner. This year we secured for our trade some Banquet and Piano lamps with the automatic attachment that does away with taking off the chimney when you want to light the wick. That alone is worth something and is not found on the made-to-sell sort.

For a table lamp we have for a pedestal a very handsome Onyx top table, antique pattern that looks as though Sypher of New York had had something to do with it. Sypher is the boss dealer in art furniture in the United States. The hard wood Refrigerators have arrived and are at your service. In addition to ornamenting whatever part of your house you put one of them you will find them great economists when it comes to ice.

The rat traps we made the hit on are in such demand that it is a hard matter to keep up with the call. We have ordered more of them and until they arrive we suggest your using the Delusion mouse trap for juvenile rodents. The effect on the mouse is startling.

We have paid a great deal of attention this year to the shades for lamps, with the most satisfactory results. It makes very little difference how good or how elaborate a lamp is, if the shade is not in keeping with it the lamp shows to a poor advantage just as a lady going out in a handsome suit and a back number bonnet. It is doubtful if there ever has been such an assemblage of fine lamp bonnets in this Kingdom as we show you this year.

The pretty little night lamps we called your attention to two weeks ago have taken well with people whose taste leans toward really beautiful things. We have two of them left, not many in a community like this. A half dozen hand painted lamps with shades to match are worth double what we offer them to you for; they sell at that in other shops but we are up with the times when it comes to selling things cheap—good things too. These lamps are suited in the parlors, library and bed room—an excellent reading lamp with genuine B. & H. burners. Schultze Powder Cartridges arrived by the "Albert" this morning.
